Mr. Wade appears to be a young man of good ability and most exemplary conduct, and will no doubt succeed in his profession. Politically he takes more to his uncle Stevens, than to his the loss. uncle Wade.

Maj. Thos. Wilhelm and Capt. J. J Van Horr dropped in to see us and "swap a few" yesterday. These gentlemen are resting on their oars, so to speak, so far as the active duties of actual war is concerned, but like all their brethren in arms, are ever ready, at the call of their commander to take the field when the necessity shall arise, or go to meet danger on the farthest confines of the Continent in obedience to orders. Such is the life of a soldier, he can no more select a home for himself and family than though he were a Methodist circuit rider.

ISN'T IT SWEET .- A little miss, beautifully dressed, with white muff in one hand, and her pretty little face beaming all over with smiles came tripping into this office vesterday to exhibit a beautiful flower basket, all made of sugar which had just been presented to her by Dan Hatz. The basket was manufactured at Dan's confectionary establishment, and is a most elegant exhibition of what may be done by those who understand their business. "Isn't it sweet." She said, having no reference of course, to the material of which it was composed, but it was really sweet in every sense, and those who saw the pleased little owner thought she was even sweeter than the basket.

Since the above has been in type we learn that Jesus (Hasoos) stopped the stage after driving some distance, after the robbery, and went back to the scene, after the robbers had left, and he and Evans examined the ground as well as they could in the night, finding the mail bags cut open, many of the letters torn open and Evans picked up a check drawn by the Peck Mining Company on the First National Gold Bank, San Francisco, for $50. A preliminary examination of the parties will be had to-morrow morn.
